

After everybody has said their individual good wishes, grandma realizes you never came over and starts to push towards your direction; when she reaches you she asks if you want to give her a hug.

A). You half pause the game, and respond with a “No” because you’re still trying to play your GAMEBOY, and are not focused on the current situation at hand.

Or

B). The last person gives their best wishes to her, and you then give her a hug and wish her good luck and back away as they take her outside.